

A painting of a white butterfly with delicate wings, perched on a dark, rocky outcrop. The background is a dramatic, stormy sky with dark, swirling clouds and patches of lighter, hazy blue. The foreground is a dark, textured landscape with green grass and brown earth. The overall mood is somber yet hopeful.

Death's shadow—
with all its threats
and torments—is far outshadowed by God's wings.

The way through the
shadow is the way
under His wings.

Colleen Chao
On Our Way Home